Edgar Hiestand Speaks Tonight

Former Rep. Edgar W. Hiestand will discuss his political campaigning and the presidential lineup for 1964 at the Californians for Goldwater Club meeting, South Bay Chapter, Plush Horse Restaurant, tonight at 8 p.m.

The meeting is being held in conjunction with a session of the South Bay Young Republican Club.

Needed to Volunteers Drive Blind

An urgent appeal for help has been issued by the Foundation for the Junior Blind for volunteers with cars who are willing to give a few hours of their time to drive blind children to the foundation's headquarters, 4005 Wilshire Blvd.

"The situation has become most critical," reported Norman Kaplan, founder and executive director of this non-profit organization which serves blind children between the ages of 6 and 21, from all over Los Angeles County. Drivers are desperately needed on Fridays and/or Saturdays to transport our blind children from their homes to the foundation.

"Volunteers are under no obligation to do this any set number of times. Once a week, once a month, or even once every other month... every little bit helps," according to Kaplan. "There are many blind children in the Torrance area who would like to use the foundation's facilities but have no way of getting there," he said.

"WE HAVE AN excellent program of recreational classes to offer these children... classes in woodshop, poise and personal grooming, ham radio, cooking, judo, arts and crafts, music, dance, and many other activities designed to widen the scope of these children's lives.

"An extremely capable teaching staff is willing and waiting to instruct these children, but without volunteers to drive them, we have no way of getting these youngsters to our foundation," he added.

Anyone able to give a few hours of his time, anytime, is asked to please call the Foundation for the Junior Blind, 4005 Wilshire Blvd., or phone DUUnkirk 5-4411, collect.

Ben Schwartz Aids Program SMI Session

Ben Schwartz, executive vice president of Foods Co. Market of Torrance and member of a nine-man committee for the annual convention of Super Market Institute, will attend a planning meeting in Chicago Oct. 22.

The committee will hold conferences with Super Market Institute's (SMI) president, Irving W. Rabb; Michael J. O'Connor, executive director; and Richard W. Daspit, director of conventions.

The 27th annual convention of SMI has been scheduled April 28-29, 1964, at Chicago's McCormick Place, according to Robert B. Cullum, general convention chairman.

Accidents Chief Cause Of Childhood Deaths

K. H. SUTHERLAND, M.D. National statistics disclose that there were approximately 11,000 accidental deaths among children 1 to 14 years of age in 1962, a figure which shows that accidents kill more children in this age group than any disease, Child Health Day, which was Oct. 7 this year, focused attention on the problem of childhood accidents, and leaders in child health and welfare hope they have stimulated accident preventive activities among all interested persons.

The reduction in fatal accidents among children has been about the same as the relative decrease in mortality from disease. But accidents, alone, continue to be the single leading cause of death among children, particularly among boys.

Progress in accident prevention is, of course, being made. Over the last 12 years in the United States, close to a one-third reduction in childhood mortality was achieved, which, though due in part to decreases in deaths from the principal communicable diseases, was also due to the considerable decrease in accidental childhood deaths.

DIFFERENT HAZARDS imperil different ages. Fatal accidents during infancy are most often caused by a fall, a fire, an automobile accident, or by suffocation.

Poisoning is a more frequent cause of death between one and four than at any other age, and from ages five to nine accidental deaths are most frequently due to the child being hit by an automobile, or to drowning or burning. Between the ages of 10 and 14, most fatal accidents are caused either by the misuse of firearms, riding in an automobile, or by drowning.

After the age of 15, highway accidents become a more serious hazard. One out of every five lives lost on the road, according to a release from the Children's Bureau, is a boy or young man between the ages 15 and 24.

IT IS WELL known that absolute safety does not exist at any age, but it is surely adult responsibility to protect young children insofar as it is possible. During the helpless months of infancy, protection against environmental hazards must be total.

As the child starts to creep and walk his world enlarges, and precautions must be taken against new hazards ranging from a frayed electric cord to common household poisons. Such dangers in the environment must be eliminated for the child's protection.

The toddler and preschooler must be protected and educated as well. For the child's own protection, obedience must be exacted in the matter of safety. More than 15,000 youngsters under the age of five years suffered accidental injuries during 1962, many of which resulted in permanent disabilities.

THIS YEAR, Child Health Day put the spotlight of national attention on the problems of childhood accidents. But the actual work of prevention is a year-round job that should be carried on by all individuals interested in the health and welfare of children. Conscientious safety supervision, and alertness to possible hazards in the child's environment on the part of parents or other responsible adults, may save a youngster's life or prevent some permanent physical impairment. While not all accidents to children are preventable, the majority of them need not happen.

A pamphlet on accidents and children will be mailed to anyone who sends a card of request to the Division of Health Education, Los Angeles County Health Department, 241 N. Figueroa St., Los Angeles 12.

Convention Set

The 12th annual Southern California Sunday School Convention will be held at Angelus Temple, 1100 Glendale Blvd., Los Angeles, Nov. 1 and 2.

Sponsored by the Greater Los Angeles Sunday School Assn., the meeting will bring together pastors, Sunday school superintendents, and teachers from all parts of Southern California.

The Rev. Mr. William E. Kirschke, former executive director of the National Sunday School Assn., will be the featured speaker.

Soroptimists Slate 'Black Bread, Caviar'

Maria Metlova, princess of Russian birth, will speak on "Black Bread and Caviar" at the Nov. 19 luncheon meeting of the Palos Verdes-Redondo Soroptimist Club at the Plush Horse Inn, 1700 S. Pacific Coast Hwy.

Material for Miss Metlova's speech and her best selling novel of the same title was gathered during her teenage years in Russia, when she and her mother returned to their native country to visit relatives. During her visit she lived as a typical Russian teenager, attending Russian schools and participating in youth group activities.

Miss Metlova will speak under the auspices of the Coast Federal Savings Free Enterprise Speakers Bureau.

Schools' Opening Hikes Employment

Mainly responsible for the increase of 17,000 workers between August and September in Los Angeles, Orange and Long Beach counties was a sharp rise in government employment with the re-opening of schools, according to Albert B. Tieberg, director of employment.

Milk is the one product we eat whose only use in nature is as food. Of all foods, it is the one for which a satisfactory replacement is the most difficult to find.

Call in your GENERAL TELEPHONE COMMUNICATIONS CONSULTANT

...get a COMPLETE COMMUNICATIONS SURVEY

New Executive Model "Hands Free" Phone. Lets you hold group conferences or personal conversations "hands free." No need to raise handset, or even your voice. Flip a switch, and use it as a regular phone, too. Adjustable volume, new electronic tone signal, modern styling. Ask your Communications Consultant about it.

A communications survey is like a medical checkup. It must be complete to be of real value.

Only a complete survey can pinpoint precisely the communications services you may need to improve efficiency and increase profits. And your Communications Consultant is a fully trained professional—willing and able to make a complete survey. His services are free. His time is yours.

Included in your complete survey are a report and analysis of how well your communications services are helping your business operations. The survey is conducted without disturbing your day to day activity.

Once problem areas (if any) have been isolated, your Communications Consultant can show you low-cost—and sometimes no-cost—methods of improvement. Don't hesitate to call your Communications Consultant at our business office today. A complete survey is yours for the asking.
